COMPETITION

WIN!

A Scottish cycling holiday worth over £1,000 – become an ambassador for the Borders

The Scottish Borders is perfect for cycle touring, with stunning scenery and hundreds of miles of quiet roads to explore. The region boasts several way-marked road routes. The 4 Abbeys cycle route is a 55-mile circuit that's ideal for a weekend break, visiting Melrose, Kelso, Dryburgh and Jedburgh. For those with more time, the 250-mile Border Loop explores Border towns and scenery. The Coast and Castles Sustrans route passes through the region, while the Tweed Cycle Way runs for 95 miles through the heart of the Borders from Biggar to Berwick upon Tweed.

Thanks to the Borders Recreational Cycling Project, we've got an all-expenses-paid cycle holiday worth up to £1200 to give away to one winner and a partner. You can even help create your holiday, with route and accommodation suggestions. And that's not all. The winner will have his or her account of the trip published in Cycle magazine as a Travellers' Tales article. (So don't forget to pack a camera and a notebook!)

You will become, in effect, a road cycling ambassador for the region. You don't need to have visited before. You just need to be an enthusiastic cyclist and keen to share your experiences with others. To find out more about cycling in the Scottish Borders, visit www.cyclescottishborders.com.

HOW TO ENTER

To enter just write a 200-300 word account of a cycling trip that you have enjoyed. It could be your favourite local ride, an exotic cycling destination you've visited, a scenic journey or a rewarding challenge – anything you think that might interest other cyclists.

Email your article to yvonne@artisanprco.uk or post it to:

7. Entries will be non-exclusive copyright of the Borders Recreational Cycling Project.
8. The winner will be required to submit a Travellers' Tales article on the trip for publication in Cycle magazine, and will be provided with editorial guidelines for this.
9. The winner's Travellers' Tales article and accompanying photos may also be used for publicity by the Borders Recreational Cycling Project.
10. The winner can take his or her trip to the region anytime before the end of 2010, subject to accommodation availability, and can have a say in route and accommodation choices.

YOU WIN! Congratulations to Lesley Webb of Hitchin, Mr K Harriman of Wigston Magna, Andrew Neves of Matlock, and Roger Troughton of Dorking. All win a pair of Ortlieb Back Roller Classic panniers.

Snap it up

Send us your best cycling picture for a chance to win one of two Ogio camera backpacks worth £69.99 each

After cycling, photography is one of the most popular interests amongst CTC members. Which is no surprise, really: cycling gives you more freedom to explore than you have on foot, giving you the opportunity to capture on camera limitless landscapes, nature shots or urban street scenes.

And when you love seeing the world from the saddle, the next best thing is to share what you've seen with other people. That's why CTC is running a photo competition, open to all CTC members. Photos can be about any aspect of cycling – touring, commuting, mountain biking, you name it. From your entries, we'll put together a library of inspiring and entertaining cycling images.

There are two age groups: under 18 and 18 and over, and the owner of the best image in each category will win an Ogio Atiba Mini Camera Backpack worth £69.99. Designed for constant use, the bags feature adjustable padded partitions to protect your camera gear, large external pockets to keep things tidy, padded back support, a weatherproof cover, and a whole host of other features.

We'll print a selection of the best photos in Cycle, and as well as the chance to win a backpack and have your photo printed in this magazine, all submissions will be added to a library of cycling images that will be hosted online. Plus, we may use your photo on our website or in CTC literature. (See 'Rules & Regulations' for details.)

For inspiration, have a look at the CTC Flickr pool: http://www.flickr.com/groups/ctc\_cyclists/

How to take part

The competition is for digital photos only, including pictures that you have scanned. Save your photo as a .JPG file under 2MB in size, then email it to publicity@ctc.org.uk with 'CTC photo competition' in the subject line. In the body of the email, please give a short description of the photo – a single sentence is fine. Don't forget to include your name, CTC membership number, and age if you're under 18. The closing date for entries is 31st August 2010.

Rules & regulations

- Open to CTC members only. One entry per person.
- Entrants must have personally taken the image supplied.
- Entrants undertake that the image supplied will not, to the best of their knowledge and belief, infringe copyright or other actionable right nor contain defamatory material.
